Having expunged Senator Cecil Brown's remarks from the minutes of the Senate, the Brown incident in sil its details is sure to become historical. If the thing had been let alone, it would have been quickly forgotten.

Honolulu's experiments with material for street construction are by remeans ended, but the people are to pleased with having the street holes filled up with any sort of material that they may be slow in taking up advance work for permanent improvement.

The Morning Organ always has a billet of mud ready for anything from judges on the bench to members of the coming a popular recommendation for the citizen or official besmirched.

It seems strange indeed that although to catch up with the House, it has been in session fourteen days the Senate is still awaiting the receipt of the Governor's appointments. The request of Senator White is timely and pertinent. It is difficult to even imagine Governor Dole as acting promptly, yet a desire to facilitate public business ought to cause him to transmit these appointments to the Senate at the earliest date possible after the transmission of his message. Why the delay? Is it natural procrastination or does the Governor fear for the fate of his appointments and believe they will stand a better show of acceptance later in the session? The Governor is free to take his own time, but he can't gain anything for himself or the Territory by playing a game of delay.

What the laboring man of this Territory needs is protection from the degrading inroads of Asiatic bordes, A bill that will cover this point and include the eight hour provision ought to be satisfactory to all concerned. With the country so overrun with Asiatics it is not impossible as suggested by a Representative yesterday, that public work might be delayed by confining the labor strictly to voters of the Territory. Certainly no citizen of the Territory need fear any depression in the labor market by leaving all public work open to American citizens. Any workmen from the Mainland will demand a fair wage with as much if not more tenacity than our & Waity, own people. Furthermore they would increase the power combating Oriental labor that can work for nothing and live on less.

KAHUNA AND SCIENCE.

The suggestion is made that a meas ure may be introduced in the Legislature looking to the removal of the ban against Kahunas.

Here is a problem that the people of so-called modern ideas can dispose of with much less case than their Puritanical forefathers. People of the present day are less disposed to feel 8.00 dispensation of God, and all opposed to them are heading straight for eternal damnation, a hell with real brimstone in it. The stiff neck of the Puritan is less in evidence, except in individual

The only marked difference between the Christian Scientist and the Kahuna is that the former works through civilized god and the latter deals with what the Puritans cailed idolarry; the Christian Scientist works with the sole idea of prolonging life and easing pain 500 Lots in the Kapiolani, Kaiuwhile the Kahuna sometimes adds to this the effort to hasten the departury of an individual into the next world.

YOUNG PEOPLES UNION

The annual meeting of the Honolulu Young People's Union was held last night at the Central Union church. This society is composed of members from the various Christian Endeavor societies of the city and is one of the practical working religious bodies of the community.

New officers were elected last night for the ensuing year as follows: President, M. K. Nakuina; vice president. Miss Kate Kelley; secretary, Miss Ethel Chamberlain; treasurer, G. K. Frucases that prove the rule. There is kawa. Song service and scriptural reading was interspersed in the program of business.

Reports were heard from the societies of the Kawaiahao, Japanese, Central Union, Methodist and Christian churches. These reports showed all the organizations to be in a growing and prosperous condition.

The work during the past year nas been especially active along mission lines. Much good has been accomplished among the Chinese and among the inmates of the various hospitals.

President Smith of Oahu College made an able address and was followed by Major Wood of the Salvation Army and Rev. S. P. Perry. A vocal solo by Mrs. Walter Hoffman and a violin solo by Miss Iola Barber were pleasing features of the program.
